Radar Instruction Manual

Since 1958 the Maritime Administration has continuously conducted instructions in use of collision avoidance radar for qualified U.S. seafaring personnel and representatives of interested Federal and State Agencies. Beginning in 1963, to facilitate the expansion of training capabilities and at the same time to provide the most modern techniques in training methods, radar simulators were installed in Maritime Administration's three region schools. It soon became apparent that to properly instruct the trainees, even with the advanced equipment, a standardize up-to-date instruction manual was needed. The first manual was later revised to serve both as a classroom textbook and as an onboard reference handbook. This newly updated manual, the fourth revision, in keeping with Maritime Administration policy, has been restructured to include improved and more effective methods of plotting techniques for use in Ocean, Great Lakes, Coastwise and Inland Waters navigation. Baseball Haiku: The Best Haiku Ever Written about the Game

W. W. Norton & Company Presenting more than two hundred of the greatest haiku ever written about the game. There are moments in every baseball game that make fans catch their breath: the pause while a pitcher looks in for the sign, the moment a cocksure rookie gets picked off first, or the instant a batter lashes a game-winning homer into the night sky, just before the sell-out crowd explodes onto its feet. Haiku captures these moments like no other poetic form, and Baseball Haiku captures the sights, the sounds, the smells, and the emotions of the game like no previous collection. Some of the most important haiku poets of both America and Japan are featured in this anthology; including Jack Kerouac, a longtime baseball fan who pioneered English-language haiku; Alan Pizzarelli, one of the top American haiku and senryu poets of the last thirty years; and Masaoka Shiki, one of the four great pillars of Japanese haiku—a towering figure—who was instrumental in popularizing baseball in Japan during the 1890s. With over two hundred poems spanning more than a century of ball playing, Baseball Haiku reveals the intricate ways in which this enduring and indelible sport—which is played on a field, under an open sky—has always been linked to nature and the seasons. And just as a haiku happens in a timeless now, so too does Baseball Haiku evoke those unforgettable images that capture the actions and atmospheres of the national pastime: each poem resonates like the lonely sound of cleats echoing in the tunnel as a grizzled veteran leaves his final game. The largest collection of haiku and senryu on baseball ever assembled, Baseball Haiku is an extraordinary treasure for any true baseball fan.

Please proceed with caution as the book contains graphic violence and sexual content that is recommended for mature reading audiences with an open mind only!EXCERPT:"Turn around and look at me." The order was thrown in a chillingly calm tone.Trembling and worried about the consequences, Anika slowly turned, and raised her eyes toward the man in front of her. Her vision was still blurry from the residual moisture. She wiped her tears away and was met with the sight of the broad back of a tall man. He was turned away from her as he closed the door shut. Stepping back, she wrapped her arms around her protectively. She kept her wary eyes trained on his back, waiting for what, she didn't know.As soon as he turned, she felt like the air was sucked away from around them, making her gasp out loud. The man looked larger than life, and more importantly, he looked like he could easily kill her with a single blow.His eyes scanned the mess she had made in the room, before he turned to look at her face dispassionately. She expected to see anger, but there was none. He didn't say anything for a long moment, just kept his eyes firmly locked on her face.After an indeterminate amount of time, he broke the deafening silence. "So. You are my bride-to-be," he stated rather than ask in a deep voice.After an indeterminate amount of time, he broke the deafening silence. "So. You are my bride-to-be," he stated rather than ask in a deep voice.The word 'bride' broke through her trance and made adrenaline course through her body.God, this is so messed up. Why am I cowering in fear?"I don't want this," she whispered, unable to work up a louder voice. She kept her eyes on his face, pleading. "Please stop this marriage."He didn't respond, and neither did he react."I don't want this wedding," she repeated. "We can think of another solution. We should be able to come up with a reasonable..." her voice trailed off when she saw him compressing his lips into a thin, hard line as he began to walk toward her.Through trembling lips, she spoke again. "I'm not from your world. I don't belong here. Let me go back to my family," she reasoned.The man stopped in front of her until he was too close for comfort. His eyes were riveted on her face as his mouth stretched into a sneer full of hate and loathe. "We are getting married because your precious family has begged me to do so. So, if you or your fucking family tries to pull any stunt during our wedding today, and try to back out, I'm not going to spare anyone." He spat out the words 'your family' like they were a curse.Slowly and deliberately his eyes swept over her body clothed in traditional bridal attire. "Nothing and no one--including you--can stop this from happening. You will become my wife by tonight," he vowed.Listening to those words, her legs gave out from under her, and she collapsed on her knees unable to swallow the defeat.How could she let herself be trapped in this hellhole? Because of her one impulsive decision, she was going to lose everything.
